A Lively Scrimmage.

CAIRO.—A telegram has been received from Colonel Hicks, reporting that on the 29th ult. He had an engagement with 5,000 rebels. The battle, which lasted a half hour, resulted in the defeat of the rebels with 500 killed, including the Lieutenant General of El Mahdi, the False Prophet, and many wounded. The Egyptian loss is slight. Colonel Hicks praises the gallantry of the Egyptian troops.

The Phoenix Park Trials.

DUBLIN.—Thirteen of the prisoners who have been confined in Kilmainham Jail, charged with having been connected with the Cavendish-Burke tragedy in Phoenix Park, but who have never been brought to trial on that charge, have been indicted and will be tried for another crime. One of their number, Joseph Hanlon, has turned informer, and produces evidence to connect them with conspiracies set on foot to murder Earl Cowper, Mr. Foster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and other prominent officials, whose lives they jeopardized, but did not succeed in taking. The Government regards the evidence sufficient to convict on the charge of conspiracy, while the men can not be closely connected with the Phoenix Park assassination.

The Crown has presented to the Grand Jury bills for murder against Peter Tynan ("Number One"), John Welsh and P. J. Sheridan, and a bill as accessory to murder after the fact against Fitzharris. Welsh and Sheridan are in America, and Tynan is supposed to be there. The Grand Jury have found true bills against Lawrence Hanlon, James and Joseph Mullett, and Daniel Delaney, on a charge of attempting to murder Juror Dennis Field.

They have also found true bills for conspiracy to murder against the two Mulletts, Lawrence Hanlon, Edward McCaffrey, Edward O'Brien, George Smith, Peter Doyle, Thomas Doyle, William Moroney and Daniel Delaney.

A bill against Thomas Martin, charged with the same offense, was rejected. James Mullett was arranged this morning on a charge of a conspiracy to murder, and pleaded guilty.

William Moroney also pleaded guilty to the charge of a conspiracy to murder. Several of the other men charged with the same offense are also expected to plead guilty.

Lawrence Hanlon was next arraigned on a charge of attempting to murder Dennis Field. He pleaded not guilty and his trial began.

If true bills are found against Walsh, Sheridan and Tynan it is understood the Government will demand their extradition from America.

The Grand Jury have returned true bills against Tynan, Walsh and Sheridan for murder, and against Fitzharris as accessory after the fact.

The Grand Jury was sent back to reconsider the case of Thomas Martin, a bill against whom they had rejected, and after again deliberating for some time returned a true bill against him.

A man named Hawkins has been arrested here. He will be arraigned to-morrow, with Eugene Kingston and others, on a charge of conspiracy to murder Poole, the Fenian Center, who had turned informer.

BELFAST.—Two hundred persons, who are known to be members of the Patriotic Brotherhood, have left Crossmaglen, County Armagh, and its vicinity, because of revelations made recently implicating them in unlawful acts.

Important If True.

LONDON, 5 P. M.—A rumor prevails here that the United States Government has consented to extradite Tynan, Walsh and Sheridan.

Charged to Dynamite.

PETERBOROUGH.—Priestgate street, one of the principal thoroughfares of this city, was partially blown up last night. Great alarm was caused by the explosion, as it was thought it was the work of dynamite fiends, but it is now believed it was due to the ignition of gas in the sewer under the street. Houses on the street were much damaged.

Placed on Trial.

LONDON.—Dr. Gallagher, Bernard Gallagher, Wilson, Curtin, Ansbrough, Whitehead and Dalton, the seven men charged with treason and felony in connection with a dynamite conspiracy, were again arraigned this morning. The time of the session was occupied by the reading of evidence taken at previous hearings, at the conclusion of which the prisoners were remanded for another.

Valuation of Railroads.

Cincinnati telegram, May 4.

The County Auditors on the line of the L. C. & St. Louis Railroad met in this city yesterday and valued the road for taxation for the year 1883 as follows: Main line, from Cincinnati to Columbus, at $14,000 per mile; second track at $5,000 per mile; side track on main line, $3,000 per mile; Springfield branch, main line, at $7,000 per mile; Richmond branch, main line, at $7,000 per mile; side tracks on Springfield and Richmond branches, $2,000 per mile. Number miles main line in Ohio, 191.95. Value of rolling stock, $332,074. Value of buildings, $150,815.

A Ghastly Witness

A Lynched Man's Hand Indelibly Imprinted

On the Back of the Tree to Which It Was Nailed—Atrocities for Which All the Perpetrators Have Suffered Retribution.

Denton, Md., telegram, May 3.

The correspondent of the Philadelphia Press telegraphs his paper the following interesting account of the lynching of Jim Wilson for the murder of Ellen Plummer, and the ghastly reminder of the tragic event, which was one of the most atrocious affairs of which even a frenzied mob could be guilty, is described as actually existing in the shape of an indelible impression of the lynched man's hand on the tree to which it was nailed. The correspondent says:

I drove out yesterday to a tree, four miles from the village, which still bears the imprint of the hand of a negro, which was nailed there by one of the mob which hanged, quartered, mutilated and burned him nearly twenty years ago. This singular freak of nature or sign manual of divine displeasure, as many residents of the county esteem it, is generally treated with such contemptuous disbelief by strangers visiting Caroline County, that it is difficult now to find one who has seen it willing to talk about it, but an official of the county, who did his full duty in an endeavor to stay the fury of the mob, consented to show me the remarkable tree. It is a giant swamp poplar, quite three feet in diameter, standing close by the road which opens up Tuckahoe Neck, the garden spot of the country. About twelve feet from the ground, on the road face of the tree, is a seeming scar, which might attract a casual glance on account of its marked difference in color from the other bark. Probably a stranger would not notice the singular tracing of which it is the frame, but to one looking for it the outline of a human hand, somewhat elongated by the growth of the tree, grows as one looks until it takes almost the very similitude of the withering hand which was nailed there two decades ago. Even the nail is still visible, although the bark has grown beyond so that it is half an inch below the surface. The tracing of the hand appears in a much smoother as well as lighter-colored bark—the palm through which the nail was driven being clearest in shape, with the thumb and spread index and little finger scarcely less perceptible. My guide said that the appearance grows more and more noticeable with each year, and it would be difficult to persuade him that it is due to other than providential design.

THE STORY OF THE CRIME.

The story of the crime, criminal and mob fury, of which he was the victim, is remarkable and worth recalling. Ellen Plummer, the twelve-year-old daughter of Edgar Plummer, did not return from school one Monday evening in the Fall of 1863. Her way home led past a dense wood, just entering which she was last seen alive. A searching party next morning found her corpse under a heavy log deep in the forest. It was evident that Jim Wilson, a bright mulatto of twenty-three years, who was known to have been in the woods about the hour the girl was last seen, was connected with her disappearance. Wilson had been held in extraordinarily high esteem for politeness, industry and fidelity. He was the foreman and trusted protector of two maiden ladies who lived on a small farm in the neighborhood. No suspicion attached to him, when the persons investigating the crime questioned him, merely hoping that he might have observed something that would throw light upon the tragedy. When the subject was mentioned, the man turned pale, trembled violently and seemed on the verge of fainting. He could scarcely articulate his protests that he had not been near the wood and knew nothing of the crime. He protested too much, and suspicion fastened at once upon him as the murderer. He was arrested, and, after a brief examination, hurried off toward the county jail. On the road thither many wildly excited farmers joined in the procession, and even then lynching the prisoner was discussed. It was urged, however, that the proof of his guilt was not yet certain. As a speedy way of obtaining this he was swung up by the thumbs to a tree limb, and after an hour's suspension, confessed that, prompted by the devil, he had done the deed. His confession cooled, rather than increased the fury of the mob, who, listening to calmer counsels, carried him away to jail to answer in due form of law. Many persons even yet believe that the confession, although repeated afterward in the jail, was only the expression of a man too thoroughly terrified to know what he was saying. Each day after his incarceration, a few young fellows, who were regarded almost with terror by law-abiding citizens, became more open in their threats that Wilson should not live to grace a legal gallows. Just at dark on the Saturday following the crime, twelve men, without masks or other concealment, and accompanied by, perhaps, fifty men and boys who took no part in the proceedings, attacked the jail. They made no formal demand for the prisoner, but Thomas Lockerman, with wedge, ax and sledge, broke the outer door down in a very few minutes. Wilson was in a cell on the upper floor. Between the beatings of the axes and sledges on the cell door the negro's voice could be heard in terrified prayers to God and man for mercy. The mob found him on his knees, too overcome with fear to make resistance.

A MOB OF SAVAGES.

They had brought a rope fifty feet long, and one end of it trailed far out into the jail yard. The noosed end was fastened around the victim's neck. He was carried, praying for mercy, not struggling, to the stair landing, and, at a signal, the ropetightened with the jerk of ten powerful arms and it is more than likely that Wilson was dead before his body reached the foot of the stairs. Through the jail portal and yard into the street, and thence through the court-house yard he was trailed at the rope's end, his murderers yelling so like savages that timid citizens shuddered behind the barred doors. A large sycamore tree stands at the foot of the court-house yard. The rope was run over a convenient limb and the corpse swung off the ground. The mob had brought shotguns and pistols, and for a brief time amused themselves with riddling the body with bullets and small shot. One load from a shotgun severed the rope and the body fell. The fury of the mob intensified. Another noose was closed around the neck and their victim was dragged another hundred yards to a tree in front of the negro church, where it was to be suspended as a warning to the race. The tree, however, was in full view of the mob's favorite saloon, the proprietor of which bribed them with four gallons of whiskey to forego this purpose and take it elsewhere.

A Delaware butcher, named Greenwell, arrived about this time, and, at his suggestion, the most atrocious manifestations of the mob's malignity were enacted.

The body was taken to a valley in the outskirts of the village. Greenwell had brought with him the tools of his trade, and, to the accompaniments of frequent drinks, ribald songs and horrid imprecations, the butcher chopped up the body into small pieces, which were heaped in a funeral pile of brush and logs and burned. The organs enacted around the blazing fagots would have been deemed disgraceful by savages.

One of the foremost of the mob was George W. Vincent, who lived close by the poplar tree before mentioned. He had saved from the burning the two hands of the negro, and after the embers had died out proceeded homeward with his trophies. The notion of nailing the hand to the tree seems to have been a sudden impulse. He had carried a hatchet for use in breaking into the jail. It served to "skelp" as woodmen say, a place on the tree, in the middle of which he nailed the hand. His wife receiving him in shrewish humor, he threw the other hand into her lap. She tossed the gruesome object into the fire, where it was burned.

Now follows one of the most singular features of the story, and one which many youths of Caroline county have learned as a pointed lesson of the certainty of retributive sufferers. First in the line of sufferers the wife of George W. Vincent suffered paralysis of her right arm next day. Vincent, himself, a few months afterwards, while endeavoring to rob a negro near this village, was shot through the lungs and died of pneumonia, the physician said at the time, although he afterward admitted that the wound had caused the pneumonia.

Greenwell, the Delaware butcher, was deserted by all his customers. "He may butcher his meat with the same knife with which he carved Jim Wilson," they said, and he sold no more meat in Caroline county. Taking to drink, he fell one day under a train at Seaford and lost his right arm. During another spree he fell into the creek at Seaford, and, although help was near and the man never sank below the surface, they took him out dead.

Marcy Fountain, uncle of the outraged girl, a man who had made a fortune as a slave trader, saw his fortune disappear, and died almost in penury. James H. Barrick and Thomas Lockerman died in the agonies of delirium tremens. Every one known to be an actor in the lynching died in agony or penury excepting Jim Long, who lives yet, the object of the pity and scorn of all who know him.

Vehemently as good citizens denounced the atrocities, not one of the actors felt the hand of human justice. Grand juries were willing enough to indict, but witnesses could not be prevailed upon to tell what they knew.

It is worthy of remark, lest the imprint in the tree be attributed to some action of the decomposing animal tissue, the lumbermen working in the vicinity made up a purse, and hired a man to take the hand down within a week of the time it was placed there.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has been fined $5 and costs in Lexington, Ky., for non-payment of city license. The company's agent, in paying the tax demanded into court, gave as a reason for not doing so before, his supposition that his company was exempt, the same as the Adams Express Company, but the judge explained that the exemption of the express company is under a special statute.

Germany Anxious to Save Her Hosiery.

More About the Attack on Minister Sargent.

New York telegram, May 3.

The Times publishes a special from Berlin which undertakes to explain the misunderstanding or misrepresentation on the part of the North German Gazette in respect to the republication in a New York paper of Minister Sargent's report to Secretary Frelinghuysen upon the pork question. The point of the special correspondent's explanation is, that what was published day before yesterday by the North German Gazette was in reality a report of Sargent to the State Department. It was presented in order to show that the North German Gazette's late personal attack, which Mr. Sargent would have been justly entitled to consider a gross infringement of a newspaper upon his privileges as a foreign ambassador, was based upon an incorrect translation by the New York Handel Zeitung of Mr. Sargent's report. The North German Gazette, in reproducing the report, prefaces it by a paragraph, which the Times correspondent characterizes as a weak and transparent attempt upon the part of the management to excuse their unwarrantable attack. This is the only excuse vouchsafed by the Berlin paper, and it is the general opinion here that while the apology is humble enough, it must be regarded nevertheless as entirely inadequate, since it convicts the North German Gazette of a gross misrepresentation of the truth.

The editor of the Handels Zeitung called at the office of the Associated Press to-day and left the following card:

"Minister Sargent's letter was translated from the consular reports of the state department."

Mr. Meyer later stated that the translation was made with the utmost care, and was absolutely as accurate as could be.

Meyer says he has information that the hosiery manufacturers of Germany are moving to secure an abolition of the prohibitory legislation against pork. They are alarmed lest action be taken by the next United States Congress imposing a duty on hosiery, which will exclude it from the United States. This would be a disaster to an industry of Germany, where, if that measure passed Congress, thousands of operatives in Germany, without other means of gaining a livelihood, would be thrown out of work, and millions of dollars of capital wasted. Of the $7,500,000 worth of hosiery annually imported into the United States, $4,500,000 comes from Germany.

DAILY BREAD.

Speculation on the Grain Crop.

A Washington dispatch says the monthly crop report for May will be issued by the Department of Agriculture at the usual time—late in the afternoon of the 10th inst. The returns from the department's correspondents throughout the country are uniformly mailed on the 1st day of each month. Many of them are not received until the very day on which the final totals and deductions are figured out. Consequently, all assertions as to what the forthcoming report "will show" are merely speculative and conjectural. The department statistician himself remarked to-day that no knowledge short of omniscience is sufficient to warrant a positive prediction of the results he will find in the compilation of the hundreds of individual reports to the department, in advance of their completed receipt and examination.

The Indicator, of Kansas City, Mo., will publish to-morrow very full special reports from all the principal wheat growing counties of Kansas, showing the condition of the winter wheat crop in that state at this time. The reports go to show that the crop will be short 20 to 25 per cent., allowing the season from now on to be favorable. A large part of the wheat acreage will be devoted to corn on account of the wheat having been winter killed.

Exploded Oil.

Vicksburg, Miss., telegram May 3.

A terrific explosion occurred at the Refuge Oil Mills, belonging to Ed. Richardson, below this city, resulting in the instant death of Miss Minnie Kaverder and the fatal wounding of Miss Minnie Parks and Harry Parks. They will both die. Hobson, the engineer, broke his leg in an effort to rescue the victims. Donally, the night watchman, and Andy Green, a laborer, were also badly burned.

Cincinnati Pottery.

Cincinnati telegram, May 3.

The Third Annual Reception of the Cincinnati Pottery Club began yesterday at the rooms of the Literary Club on Fourth street.

This club as is well known is composed very largely of Cincinnati ladies. More than two hundred articles of art pottery, decorated pitchers, urns, etc., were displayed and elicited high encomiums from many visitors.

Cincinnati Occurrences.

The St. Xavier's, Risen from its Ashes, is Reopened and Dedicated.

Terrible Elevator Accident—Three Men Injured.

Cincinnati telegram, May 3.

St. Xavier's Catholic Church, which was burned a year ago, and has since been extensively repaired, was reopened and dedicated to-day with imposing ceremonies by the Right Reverend Coadjutor Bishop W. H. Elder, assisted by Bishop Chatard.

The elevator in W. F. Thorne's boot and shoe house, at 79 West Pearl street, in descending with three passengers, gave way this morning as it reached the fourth story. The elevator cable broke, the safety catches failed to act, and it fell to the cellar with the three men. James Price, aged forty, traveling-salesman, who lives with his family at Indianapolis, had both bones of his right leg broken below the knee. He was taken to the hospital. Andrew Beis, 28, stock-keeper, who lives with his children at 405 Race street, had his right knee-cap broken, and is internally injured. He was taken home. Chas. Weber, the third occupant, a traveling salesman of Portsmouth, O., broke the fall by clinging to the side ropes, and was only injured in his hands by the friction of the ropes. The elevator was one of Lane & Bodley's make, and was examined by them only a day or two ago and pronounced safe.

The Cincinnati Railway will change the gauge on September 1, and a contract has already been closed with the Brooks Locomotive Works for ten first-class locomotives.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING!

Third Brilliant Night of the Dramatic Festival.

Cincinnati telegram, May 3.

A cloudy afternoon betokened a sloppy evening for the multitude of gay pleasureurs who were counting on the enjoyment of the third in the splendidly presented series of Shakespeare's plays, "Much Ado About Nothing." Although we have reached the middle of the great Dramatic Festival week, crowds are still coming to the city by rail and steamer, and beds are at a premium.

Miss Rhea's Beatrice, last evening, was enthusiastically received, and was a worthy and beautiful representation of one of the most piquant and attractive of Shakespeare's creations. She was ably supported by Lawrence Garrett as Benedick, and by an excellent array of other dramatic artists. The scenery was superb. Mediaeval Messina lived, moved, loved, plotted and counter-plotted before a larger and finer audience than ever before enjoyed its beauty of a former age. Music Hall is undoubtedly a large theatre, and to those seated in the rear part, the representations upon the stage are more or less pantomimic; but it is all a part of the great festival, and everybody, except some newspaper correspondents, seems happy. Opera glasses are a convenience, and ear-trumpets would not come amiss in many parts of the hall. The universal sentiment among the hundreds who have come from other cities to enjoy the festival is that they are amply repaid. They say it will be a memory for a lifetime.

Big Men in Their Day.

Lenoir, N. C., telegram, May 3.

Yesterday while a party was excavating an old mound near here they came upon fifty-six complete skeletons, some of them of enormous size and with most remarkable skulls.

Civil Service.

Washington telegram, May 3.

Dorman B. Eaton, of the Civil Service Commission, said last evening that one of the clauses of the new Civil Service law provides that appointments shall be distributed among States and Territories in proportion to the population as far as practicable, but as this cause comes with several others under the common head of provisions, which are to be carried out only as far as good administration law will permit, he did not think it would prove a source of much difficulty. He said further that it should be borne in mind that law had nothing to say with regard to the proposition in which several states and territories are represented in appointments already made, and that present representation of states and territories would not be taken into consideration in determining future appointments, as the law refers solely to appointments hereafter to be made; also, that the provision of law referred to relates to appointments, not to examinations. Of course examinations would be made, he said, with a view to supplying the appointing power with proper material. The President will approve the regulations as soon as they shall have been altered to meet the views of the Cabinet.

Democratic Convention.

The Democrats of Mason county will meet in mass convention at the Court House on Saturday May 5th at one o'clock, p. m., to select delegates to attend the State Convention at Louisville on May 16, 1883.

GARRETT S. WALL,
Chairman, D. E. C.

SENATOR ANTHONY's condition has improved.

In Ohio the English sparrow has been stricken from the list of protected birds.

The Internal Revenue collections in the Lexington district during April amounted to over $210,000.

HON. WM. A. WOODS has been appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Indiana, to succeed Gen. Gresham.

The trial of Joseph Redmon who killed Wm. Secrest, at Paris, resulted in the jury not being able to agree upon a verdict.

The New York Sun says there are many cases of leprosy in New York and the fearful disease is rapidly spreading. It is not confined to the Chinese population.

The grand jury at Harrodsburg has returned an indictment against Hon. Phil. B. Thompson for murder. Hon. D. W. Voorhes has volunteered his services for the defense.

According to the emigration statistics of Ireland for 1882, just published, 89,136 natives of Ireland emigrated during the year, an increase of 10,837 over 1881. The heaviest emigration was from Munster and Ulster. From May 1, 1851, the total number of natives of Ireland who left the Irish ports was 2,807,749.

A HALF dime of the coinage of 1804 sold in New York the other day at a numismatic auction, for $400. A dime of 1796 brought $30; a cent of 1793 brought $23; an inferior specimen of the same date, $14, and the same price was paid for a specimen of 1821. A rare old silver dollar of 1858 and one of 1852 brought $38 and $26.

The increase of the meat and live cattle exportation from this country to England is illustrated by the statement of the London Truth that during one week of April seven steamers arrived in Liverpool from America with fresh cargoes of meat, consisting of 9,046 quarters of beef and 1,608 carcasses of mutton, while seven other vessels brought to the same port, 2,655 cattle and 2,315 sheep. Possibly some of these vessels were from South America and Canada, but doubtless most of them came from the United States. In the days when cotton was king, the American civil war produced great distress in Lancashire, but England now depends largely on America, not only for cotton, but for food.

A CALL has been issued for a national convention of colored men to be held at Washington, which bears the names of Frederick Douglass, George W. Williams, author of the "History of the Negro Race in America" and Professor R. T. Greener. It is intended to be "an organized expression of discontent with the political and social treatment of the colored people by their fellow citizens." The New York Sun in referring to the matter says: It strikes us that the boldest policy and most promising line of action open at this time to the colored voters of the United States is to cut the thongs which have bound them so long to the wheels of the Republican party. The Republican party has flattered the negro and bamboozled him; it has wept over him and plundered him; it has claimed him as its own and swindled him without compunction; it has made use of him and flung him aside.

Negroes in several of the States are beginning to find this out, and to act for themselves. If the Washington Convention is a representative body, sincere in its purpose and independent in its action, it can do a great deal for the race.

THE Washington correspondent of the Courier Journal says: At present there are about sixty vacancies in the grade of second Lieutenant in the army. The class which graduates at West Point contains fifty-two members. Even should all of them pass examination, there will still be a few vacancies to be filled by appointment from civil life. Adj. Gen. Durm has issued an order for the instruction of such persons as may desire to become candidates. First, a letter must be obtained from the Secretary of War authorizing the applicant to be examined; second, he must be over twenty-one years of age and under twenty-eight years, and third, he must be of good physique, good moral character, and not addicted to intoxicating liquors. An applicant having these preliminary qualifications will be examined in most of the branches taught at West Point, and if he passes satisfactorily will be recommended for appointment.

At the last Presidential election Mason county cast 2,536 votes which entitles her to thirteen votes in the State Convention.

A Thoughtful Woman.

Washington News.

A man went home the other night and found his house locked up. After infinite trouble he managed to gain entrance through a back window, and then discovered on the parlor table a note from his wife, reading: "I have gone out. You will find the key on the side of the step."

The Wealth of Eastern Kentucky.

Lexington Press.

A gentleman from an iron manufacturing community, and a man of intelligence, was on a visit to Eastern Kentucky a short time since investigating its resources, and especially its iron resources and the facilities for converting its iron ore into pig iron. He says that pig iron can be made in Eastern Kentucky for prices ranging from $10 to $20 per ton and of the very best quality. The cost of its production in Pennsylvania is from $16 to $20 per ton.

A Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

Waterbury American.

Gentlemen should never fail to investigate beneath the sweat bands of their new hats. These bands are stitched in by girls, and it has come to be quite a common thing for them to either write their name and address on the inside of the band, or to write it, sometimes including a little note, upon a slip of paper, which is stitched in. If a girl is of an aspiring nature she only marks the most expensive hats with her name; but oftentimes the name of a don't-care girl may be found in the plainest kind of a felt slouch. It is authoritatively stated that several good matches have been cemented upon the basis of a hat-band note.

The huntsman of a well-known English pack returned home lately by rail in a third-class carriage, in which were already five men, and, as he entered, seeing a parcel of thin papers on the floor under his seat, he picked them up. Looking at them and then at his companions, he asked if any gentleman had lost a bundle of papers. Each man said "No," and the huntsman handed the bundle to the station master, saying: "As they seem to be bank notes, I had better leave them with you." The men agreed that he had done right; but, after a time, one began to feel in his pockets, and, with many imprecations on his stupidity, announced that he had lost a bundle of notes received that day at market. A discussion ensued as to what was to be done, and it was agreed that the best thing was for the owner to get out at the next station, take a hack, and go back as hard as he could. As the victim hurried off, the huntsman laughed a quiet laugh, and said: "I thought there would be one rogue out of six men. It was a bundle of play bills!"

Whitaker, Auditor's Agent, who brought the action, is a Maysville "boy," and will get a fee for his services the nice little sum of $10,000.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a called meeting of the German Relief Society, held May 1, 1883, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst our late Brother Louis Traxel, and
WHEREAS, The intimate relations long held by our deceased Brother with the members of this lodge render it proper that we should place on record our appreciation of his services as a member and his merit as a man, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the German Relief Society that while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not, the less mourn for our Brother who has been called from his labor to rest.
Resolved, That in the death of Louis Traxel this lodge loses a brother who was always active and zealous in his work as a member, ever ready to succor the needy and distressed of the lodge, devoted to its welfare and prosperity, an honest and upright man whose virtues endeared him, not only to his brethren of this lodge, but to all his fellow citizens.

Resolved, That this lodge tenders its heartfelt sympathy to the family and relatives of our deceased Brother in their sad affliction.
Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the minutes of the lodge and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased Brother, and be sent to the city papers for publication.

The report of the Board of Equalization was received, and is as follows:

MAYSVILLE, KY., May 3, 1883.

To the Honorable City Council: As members of the Equalization Board, we feel it our duty to make a report of our work. In the first place the book of the assessor, Thos. Wood, were in perfect order. On an examination of the assessments, we found about one-third of the property given in at a fair valuation, as property is usually given in, that is at about two-thirds of its real value. The rest we thought entirely too low, and on the score of equity to equalize, we thought it right and best, and our duty under our oaths to raise what seemed too low to the same value as the property that we considered given in about right, (besides in view of the indebtedness of the city, now over $100,000) by taxation, we deem it of the highest importance that taxes should be properly adjusted and we would further state that the rate of taxation now, while one cent on the dollar on the assessed value, is only about two-thirds of a cent on real value of property.

The addition we made to the assessments $200,000, which will increase the revenue of the city $2,000. We have discharged our duty to the best of our ability, in some instances we may have gone too high, in others too low, it is human to err.

We thank you for the unsolicited honor conferred on us in our appointment. But the amount you may allow us for our work will fully pay us for the misrepresentation and unjust abuse of certain parties, however, we feel assured that we will have the approval of all good citizens in having dared to do what we thought right without fear or favor. We take pleasure in acknowledging our indebtedness to your genial clerk, Harry Taylor, for his assistance, by which our labors were greatly facilitated.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES PHISTER,
President of the Equalization Board.

Oh! those "Kitchen Belles," those "Kitchen Belles."

We nothing else can hear.
And, if it isn't shortly stopped,
They'll be very vain we fear.

And you know it will never do,
For an editor in town,
To even publish an article,
That will add to vanity's building ground.

But we'll make short our rhyme,
And hope no one to deicend,
So with another line,
We bring our item to an end.

The "constantly tired-out" feeling so often experienced is the result of impoverished blood and consequent enfeebled vitality. Ayer's Sarsaparilla feeds and enriches the blood, increases the appetite, and promotes digestion of the food and the assimilation of its strengthening qualities. The system being thus invigorated, the feeling rapidly changes to a grateful sense of strength and energy.
